

I was fortunate to sit in on the committee hearing for the Indiana law regarding telephone privacy. I assure you that the affect on commerce and other business in Indiana was fully debated and discussed. I am thrilled that this law was passed and have personally benefitted from it. At one time, we probably received 6 calls a day. Now, we may get one call per week. This leads to much less stress and frustration for our family as we strive to make good use of what little time together we have at the dinner table or just in conversation. I do not wish for the FCC to supercede Indiana law. Please allow the citizens of Indiana and our representatives decide what is best for Hoosier residents.
